COMMUNITY READING OF DR. KING'S 1967 SPEECH

On Thursday, Oct. 26, 1967, civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. spoke to a crowd of 1,500 students, faculty and community members in Alumni Memorial Field House (now Hagan Arena). Fifty years later on Thursday, Oct. 26, 2017 SJU will observe the anniversary with "Our Destinies Are Tied Together," a daylong series of events.

Join SJU President Mark C. Reed, Ed.D., State Rep. Morgan B. Cephas and others for a community reading of Dr. King's 1967 remarks and a celebration of the 50th anniversary commemoration. Please join the campus community as we remember Dr. King on Thursday, October 26, 11-12:30 PM, Champion Student Center, Doyle Banquet Hall (2nd floor).

'SCIENCE ON THE HILL'

Encourages Neighborhood Conversations on Topical Science

Science on the Hill is a science café program that allows scientists to interact with the public in a relaxed setting, fostering dialogue and making science an approachable part of the everyday world. Each event is two hours long and consists of a guest scientist speaker leading a moderated discussion and question-and-answer session on scientific topics of interest to the community. Look for upcoming fascinating topics - New Uses for Drugs in the Rephetio Project, "Math behind Hidden Figures", Chemistry to build Future Products.

The lecture includes a free appetizer buffet at Landmark Americana Tap & Grill 2481 North 54th Street. Reserve now: <http://mailchi.mp/5e38450f76be/science-on-the-hill-tickets-now-available>
