Board Member, The Initiative for Family Business and Entrepreneurship

Reshma Moorthy, President of Frontier Technologies is a 10-year IT veteran, sales and business development rockstar, with boundless executive management educational degrees and experiences from Tuck, Kellogg and Cox business schools. A strong proponent of diversity and inclusion, Reshma is an award-winning business executive, claiming the Minority Rising Star Award, Enterprising Woman of the Year Award, and more.

When she's not killing it on the tennis court or the gym, Reshma wears the shoes of charity for nonprofits to lead Frontier's team in fundraising to fight cancer and other causes dear to her heart. She's also responsible for the innovative culture at Frontier, constantly driving employee health and flexible work programs.

Before taking the reins of her parents' proudly family-owned, minority & woman-owned business, Reshma developed a scientific background at St. Joseph's University in Philly (go Hawks!) where she earned her B.S. in Biology and Health Sciences. Reshma is now an active member on the Board for St. Joe's Initiative for Family Business and Entrepreneurship, where she plans to be a strong proponent for sharing the value of being your own boss!
